

8TH ANNUAL COTTLE SUPER BOWL CANDY BOWL

HERE'S OUR GRID FOR SUPER BOWL XLVI CANDY BOWL

Names were placed randomly on the grid as we received them. When it was complete, numbers were drawn. We ended up with 62 participants this year. As we promised, those who were prompt received an extra square and the first 38 respondents were rewarded. See those names below.

NEW YORK GIANTS

Congrats to Chris Spiro, the lucky player who randomly ended up with 0-0. You win a candy bar.

If you have ever wondered... Statistically, the square least likely to win is the 2-2 square. To make things more exciting, we have greatly enhanced the odds of that square winning. Actually, we've guaranteed it.

Mitchell, who is the proud owner of 2-2 this year, wins a candy bar, too.

8TH ANNUAL COTTLE SUPER BOWL CANDY BOWL

Candy Grid – How it works:

Every score change is worth a candy bar. Example: New England scores first (a field goal) so the score is 3-0 New England. The person who has the square representing 3 for New England and 0 for New York (that happens to be Vince) wins a candy bar. Then New York scores a touchdown, making the score New York: 6 New England: 3. The person who has that score (David) wins. Then New York kicks the extra point, so then the person that has the score 7-3 for New York (Mike) would win. Every time the score changes, someone wins, so we want a high scoring game.

To make things more interesting, the person who starts the game with 0-0 wins a candy bar, as does the person with the 2-2 square, as it is statistically the least likely to win.

Rules for Sweet Spot:

The object of Sweet Spot is to be the person who most accurately predicts the final score of the game. You will predict the final score for both teams. One point will be given for every point you are off. The player with the fewest points will win. Since we may have some ties, prizes will be awarded as follows:

If there is a single winner with lowest points:

- ◆ 3 candy bars to the winner
- ◆ 2 candy bars to all those with the second lowest points
- ◆ 1 candy bar to all those with the third lowest points

If 1st place is a tie:

- ◆ All 1st place winners will receive 2 bars
- ◆ 1 candy bar to all those in 2nd and 3rd place

I think I have all the score predictions in here correctly; however, if you notice an error in your prediction, please let me know ASAP so I can fix it prior to game time on Sunday.
