

9TH ANNUAL COTTLE SUPER BOWL CANDY BOWL

HERE'S OUR GRID FOR SUPER BOWL XLVII CANDY BOWL

Names were placed randomly on the grid as participants responded. When the grid was filled, numbers were drawn. We ended up with 66 participants this year. As we promised, those who were prompt received an extra square and the first 34 respondents were rewarded. See those names below.

SAN FRANCISCO 49ERS

Congrats to Adriana Cottle the lucky player who randomly ended up with 0-0. You win a candy bar.

As you may be aware, statistically, the square least likely to win is the 2-2 square. To make things more exciting, we have greatly enhanced the odds of that square winning. Actually, we've guaranteed it.

Samwise, who is the proud owner of 2-2 this year, wins a candy bar, too.

9TH ANNUAL COTTLE SUPER BOWL CANDY BOWL

CANDY GRID — HOW IT WORKS:

Every score change is worth a candy bar. Example: Baltimore scores first with a field goal, so the score is 3-0 Baltimore. The person who has the square representing 3 for Baltimore and 0 for San Francisco (that happens to be Casey) wins a candy bar. Then San Francisco scores a touchdown, making the score San Francisco: 6 Baltimore: 3. The person who has that score (Alex Blough-Swingen) wins. Then San Francisco kicks the extra point, so the person who has the score 7-3 for San Francisco (Alex Spiro) would win. Every time the score changes, someone wins, so we want a high scoring game. To make things more interesting, the person who starts the game with 0-0 wins a candy bar (Adriana), as does the person with the 2-2 square (Samwise), as it is statistically the least likely to win. Note: There will be no extra prize for end of quarter/end of game this year.

RULES FOR SWEET SPOT:

The object of Sweet Spot is to be the person who most accurately predicts the final score of the game. You will predict the final score for both teams. One point will be given for every point you are off. The players with the fewest points will win. Prizes will be awarded as follows:

- All 1st place winners will receive 2 candy bars
- All 2nd place winners will receive 1 candy bar
- Those in 3rd place who correctly predicted the winning team will win 1 candy bar.

Several of you have identical final score predictions. It will be interesting to see how many winners we ultimately have.

I'm hopeful that I have all the score predictions in here correctly; however, if you notice an error in your prediction, please let me know ASAP so I can correct it prior to game time on Sunday.
